Time to play theoretical physicist. Newton's law of universal gravitation states that  $F = G \frac{(m_1 m_2)}{(r^2)}$ . Where F stands for the force between two masses, m stands for the mass of an object, and  $r$  is the distance between these two objects ( $G$  is a constant, so you can ignore it for this theoretical question).

<sup>2</sup>Note the different role of mass here. Thus far, we have treated mass as a measure of inertia, which is called inertial mass. Now we see mass as a measure of gravitational force, which in this context is called gravitational mass*. It is experimentally established that the two are equal, and, as a matter of principle, the equivalence of inertial and gravitational mass is the foundation of ...
